12th Annual Conference

Reducing Violence By Nurturing Emotional and Behavioral Well-being: Application to Schools, Communities and Social Agencies

Friday, May 2, 2008
8:00 a.m.-4 p.m.

Victor E. Clarke Education Center
South Miami Hospital
U.S. 1 and SW 62 Avenue

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The adage is that "It takes a village to raise a child." It also takes a village to nurture well-being and prevent violent behavior from developing. The Melissa Institute is pleased to bring three leading experts and pioneers in the prevention of violence to this year's conference. They are the leaders in the areas of school-based, community-based and clinically-based interventions designed to nurture youth development and reduce violence.

CONFERENCE HIGHLIGHTS

- Plenary sessions, panel discussions and question-and-answer period
- Descriptions of culturally sensitive prevention programs
- Detailed handout materials

TARGET AUDIENCE

Educators, guidance counselors, psychologists, social workers, mental health workers, marriage and family therapists, social agency personnel, judges, law enforcement personnel, clergy, pediatricians, primary care physicians and psychiatrists.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

As a result of attending this conference, participants should be better able to:

- Implement Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) programs in their schools.
- Consider ways to implement Communities That Care guidelines.
- Implement the Core Tasks of Psychotherapy/Counseling in order to improve treatment outcomes.
- LINK various individual, organizational and community change agents.
- Convince policy-makers to implement prevention programs.

CONFERENCE DIRECTOR

Suzanne L. Keeley, Ph.D., is President of The Melissa Institute and a psychologist in private practice. She is also affiliated with Baptist Health South Florida. Dr. Keeley has had extensive clinical experience treating victims and perpetrators of violence.

PRESENTERS

Roger Weissberg is Professor of Psychology and Education, University of Illinois, Chicago and President of the Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning (CASEL). He has designed and implemented Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) programs and has worked with the Illinois State Board of Education to build SEL into the state's kindergarten through high school learning standards. Students who are enrolled in SEL programs rank 10 percentile points higher in academic achievement than non-SEL students. These students also have better attendance records, fewer behavioral problems and are less likely to be suspended. (“No emotion left behind!” is a byword of SEL programs.) Dr. Weissberg will discuss how to implement and evaluate schoolwide SEL programs. (See <http://www.casel.org>)

J. David Hawkins is Endowed Professor of Prevention, University of Washington School of Social Work. He is the developer, with Richard Catalano, of the critically acclaimed Communities That Care prevention system. His community-based assessment tools and practical implementation guidelines help communities choose and use tested and effective policies and programs to put children and families on a positive developmental trajectory. Dr. Hawkins will discuss how to use the Communities That Care system to improve outcomes for young people, community wide. (See <http://www.preventionplatform.samhsa.gov>; <http://www.sdr.org>)

J. David Hawkins

Donald Meichenbaum is Visiting Professor of Education, University of Miami School of Education. He is one of the founders of Cognitive Behavior Therapy and Research Director of The Melissa Institute. He will discuss how social agencies can identify and treat high-risk youth and families. He will highlight ways to implement the Core Tasks of Psychotherapy/Counseling. He will also provide a Case Conceptualization Model of risk and protective factors that will inform treatment decision-making. (See <http://www.melissainstitute.org>)

Donald Meichenbaum, Ph.D.

Isaac Prilleltensky, Dean of the School of Education, University of Miami, will address how to link the various components of schools, social agencies and communities, so they communicate more effectively and work collaboratively. (See <http://education.miami.edu/aboutus/Aboutus.asp>)
